Twenty-sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time (B)

Sept 26th, 2021

Nm 11:25-29 / Ps 19:8, 10, 12-14 / Jas 5:1-6 / Mk 9:38-43, 45, 47-48

A few years ago, a movie came out entitled Ben Hur. Some of you might remember it. Ben Hur, whose full name is Judah Ben Hur and his family lived well in the city of Jerusalem. Even though Israel was under the control of the Romans, the Jewish family of Ben Hur had pride, prestige and privileges. A series of misfortunes led to the loss of their privileged position and Ben Hur's mother and sister were sent to the dungeons where they eventually contracted leprosy. Judah himself was condemned to slavery and was to work in the Roman galleys. In a chain gang with other slaves, he was being marched through the countryside to his doom. On the way they paused to rest in a small village. A local man, quiet and strong, gave a cup of cold water to the exhausted prisoner, Ben Hur. Ben Hur looked up to see who was being so kind to him, and he found himself gazing into the eyes of Jesus of Nazareth. He remembered Jesus' look forever and the kind favor Jesus had done for him.

A number of years later Ben Hur won back his honor and his position. He returned to Jerusalem and to his old family house. One day, a noisy procession passed in the street as a man was jostled and pushed along to his public execution, carrying a cross. Ben Hur was filled with compassion for this prisoner, so exhausted and hardly able to walk. When the condemned criminal fell, Ben Hur moved forward to help and lift the fallen man. Their eyes met, and once again Judah Ben Hur looked into the eyes of Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus' kind action offering Ben Hur a cup of water was rewarded by the compassion Ben Hur learned to have for others who were suffering.

As Jesus passed on his way to Calvary, his shadow fell across two leper women in the crowd, the mother and sister of Judah Ben Hur. They were healed of their disease.

The story is not in the gospel, but it makes a beautiful illustration of Jesus' words in today's gospel; "If anyone gives you a cup of water to drink, he will most certainly not lose his reward." The kindness of Ben Hur in running to help a fallen man was rewarded immediately through Jesus' shadow healing his mother and sister.

Jesus is telling us every good deed, even the least, will bring good things to us. God is faithful and God is not going to let us get ahead of him in being generous. Jesus reminds us also in today's gospel that every evil deed will bring us harm and that's why he warns us to get rid of evil in our lives now. He does not want us to literally cut off parts of our bodies, but he is telling us even if something is near and dear to us, if it causes us to sin, we must not delay in changing things around. Fortunately, when we repent of our sins, God forgets the wrong we have done. But he won't forget our good deeds.

At the time of Jesus, the villages were rather small and people could better look out for one another. In our modern world we live in a village as large as the whole world and there are so many people in need that sometimes it's overwhelming. But we can't just close our eyes and hearts and we have to help as best we can with a cup of water or a kind word.

As people struggle under their crosses, we can reach out to help them. Looking into their eyes, we may see the eyes of Jesus of Nazareth. There will be times when we are in need of a cup of water or a kind word or a helping hand. Hopefully, someone will be there for us.

opportunity to serve Him and His people.

“Lord, make me a channel of your peace. Where there is hatred, let me bring your love; where there is injury, pardon; and where there is doubt, faith. Where there is darkness, light and where there is sadness, joy. Oh Divine master grant that I may not seek to be consoled as to console, to be understood as to understand, to be loved as to live. For it is in giving that we receive; it is in pardoning that we are pardoned. And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.”

Saint Thérèse of Lisieux's Story

"I prefer the monotony of obscure sacrifice to all ecstasies. To pick up a pin for love can convert a soul."

These are the words of Thérèse of Lisieux, a Carmelite nun called the "Little Flower," who lived a cloistered life of obscurity in the convent of Lisieux, France. And her preference for hidden sacrifice did indeed convert souls. Few saints of God are more popular than this young nun. Her autobiography, The Story of a Soul, is read and loved throughout the world. Thérèse Martin entered the convent at the age of 15 and died in 1897 at the age of 24.

Life in a Carmelite convent is indeed uneventful and consists mainly of prayer and hard domestic work. But Thérèse possessed that holy insight that redeems the time, however dull that time may be. She saw in quiet suffering a redemptive suffering, suffering that was indeed her apostolate. Thérèse said she came to the Carmel convent "to save souls and pray for priests." And shortly before she died, she wrote: "I want to spend my heaven doing good on earth."

Thérèse was canonized in 1925. On October 19, 1997, Pope John Paul II proclaimed her a Doctor of the Church, the third woman to be so recognized in light of her holiness and the influence of her teaching on spirituality in the Church.

Her parents, Louis and Zélie, were beatified in 2008, and canonized in 2015.

Reflection

Thérèse has much to teach our age of the image, the appearance, the "self." We have become a dangerously self-conscious people, painfully aware of the need to be fulfilled, yet knowing we are not. Thérèse, like so many saints, sought to serve others, to do something outside herself, to forget herself in quiet acts of love. She is one of the great examples of the gospel paradox that we gain our life by losing it, and that the seed that falls to the ground must die in order to live.

Preoccupation with self separates modern men and women from God, from their fellow human beings, and ultimately from themselves. We must re-learn to forget ourselves, to contemplate a God who draws us out of ourselves, and to serve others as the ultimate expression of selfhood. These are the insights of Saint Thérèse, and they are more valid today than ever.

Once admitted she experiences the joys and rigors of monastic life, and makes the surprising yet simple discovery that holiness can be achieved by small acts of love and compassion – a spiritual path she calls her "Little Way."

THE CASE FOR JESUS BY DR. BRANT PITRE

Dr. Brant Pitre, Scripture scholar and bestselling author, uses biblical and historical evidence to bolster the "case for Jesus" by exposing the problems with the many false theories that have been introduced over the past hundred years, resulting in widespread skepticism about the reliability of Christian Faith. He tackles head-on questions like: Were the four Gospels written anonymously? Did Jesus claim to be God? Did Jesus fulfill the Jewish prophecies of the Messiah? and many more.
